DOUGLAS CASUAL LIVING SIGNS FOUR YEAR LEASE ON HIGH POINT SHOWROOM

(HIGH POINT, NC) – October 4, 2010 – MMPI High Point announced today that Douglas Casual Living will open a new 8000 square foot showroom in Plaza Suites #310 for the Fall High Point Market, October 16-21.

Launched in June of 2010, Douglas Casual offers a full line of stationary and caster dining furniture. Product ships from the company's California warehouse and also is available in container quantities shipped direct from China. Currently Douglas collaborates with both on staff and the industries top designers to implement products that suit today's casual living lifestyle. Douglas Casual Living strives for the best quality available in the marketplace; producing and testing all its products within it's own facilities. They will preview multiple new casual living collections this market, featuring creatively designed styles from elegant hand finished metal, wood, and marble combinations starting at $99 and up for 5 piece collections. All collections will have matching occasional and entertainment pieces as well.

"We are excited to be showing in Plaza Suites and at the High Point Market, which is the premier market for all manufacturers and retailers in the home furnishings industry," said Scott Ellis, vice president of sales and marketing, for Douglas Casual. "We look forward to growing and expanding our presence at the Plaza Suites, as we broaden both our casual living collections and product categories." Ellis has worked with Douglas parent company, Amtech Management since the late 90s as well as dealing with them as a resource for casegoods during his position as V.P. Sales and Marketing for Johnston Thombigbee, a casegoods manufacturing company based in Columbus MS.
